FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

KENT GROUP COMPLETES ANOTHER AGRIBUSINESS MERGER AND ACQUISITION TRANSACTION

April 7, 2007— Kent Group Inc. announces the successful acquisition of G&J Fertilizer Company (McNabb, IL) by Sun Ag., Inc. based in El Paso, IL. G&J was founded in 1972 by Gladys and Jim King and is a leading supplier of liquid and dry fertilizers, agricultural chemicals, seed and application services in a three county area of north-central Illinois. The Kings sold their business to prepare for retirement following Jim King's commitment to manage the business for a minimum of two years. All non-family members have remained with the business in their present positions.

Sun Ag., owned by Dave Neisler is also an agronomic input supplier and service provider, with four additional crop supply and service centers in central Illinois. G&J's market area abuts Sun Ag.'s geography and the marketing, purchasing, equipment sharing and administrative synergies presents a value-added, strategic opportunity for Dave's company.

Kent Group Inc. (www.kentgroupinc.com) manages agribusiness and food industry mergers, acquisitions and divestitures throughout the United States, Canada and Europe. The scope of over 175 past assignments has ranged from the divestiture of a product line to managing the sale of large corporation subsidiaries with numerous deals in between, including the sale of many privately owned businesses. These transaction values ranged from a few million dollars to over $100 million. Kent Group Inc. managed and negotiated the transaction and acted as financial advisor to G&J Fertilizer Company.
